

DHAIRYA PUJARA

Founder CEO
Ycenter

The web story

Three 20-yr-olds launch website where students can share reference books at low prices; get 60 members in one week

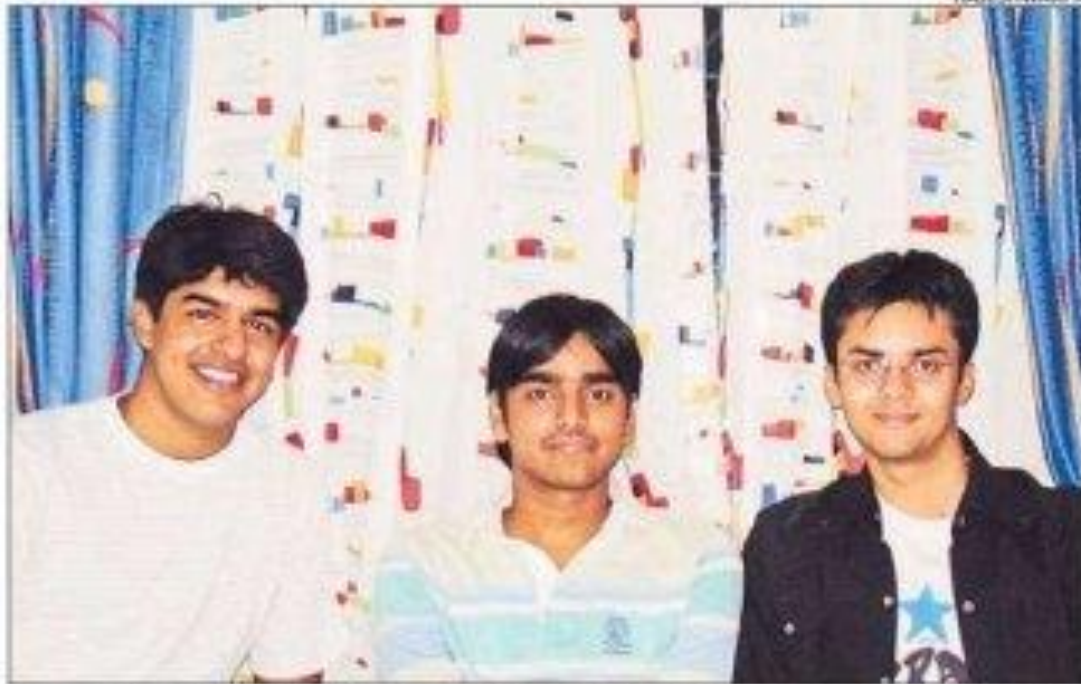

Rajeshwari K.
Thane

THREE STUDENTS of instrumentation from Vivekananda Education Society's Institute of Technology, Aashish Aroon, Nitin Modani and Dhairya Pujara are not your usual 20-year-olds.

The trio came together to create a website where students can share reference books at low prices, as the books are usually very expensive.

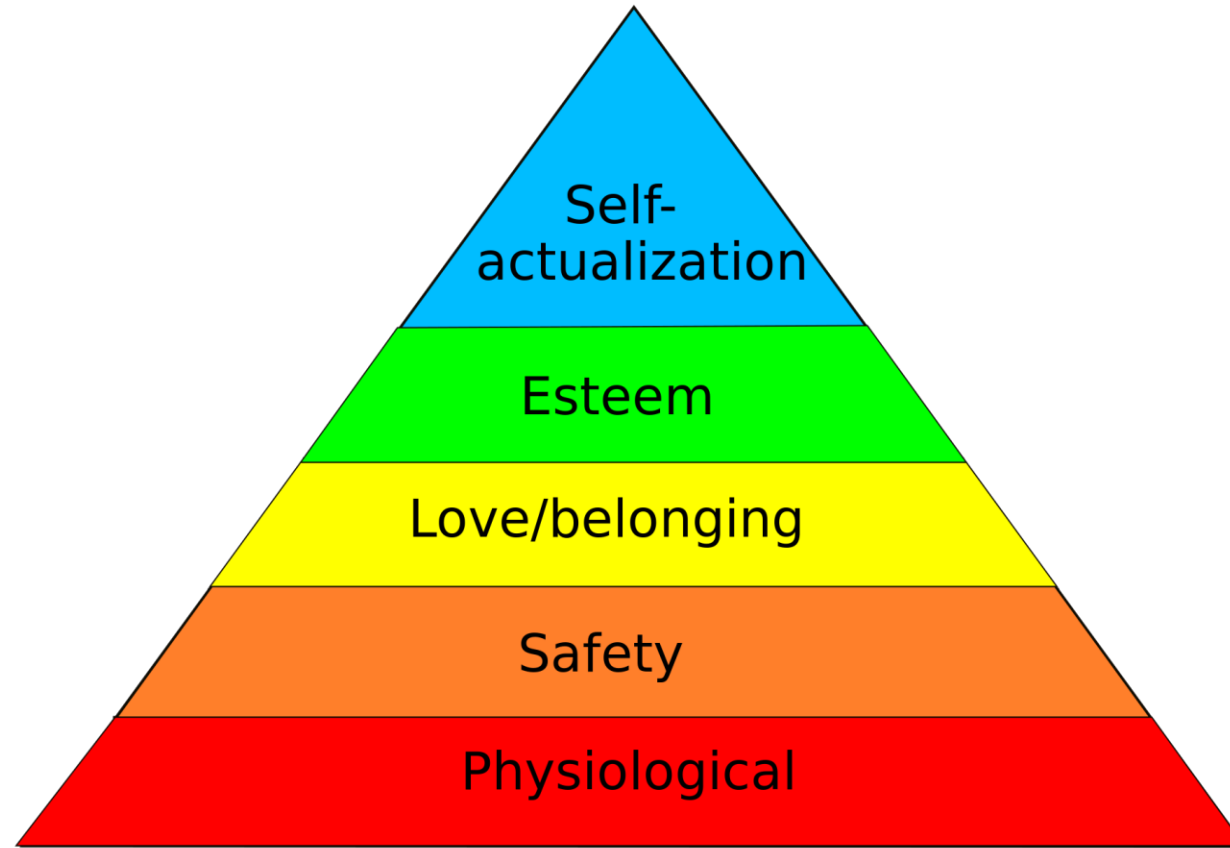

Within a week of the launch, 60 students registered at the website and the number is still rising. The number of books available in the database has also increased from 100.

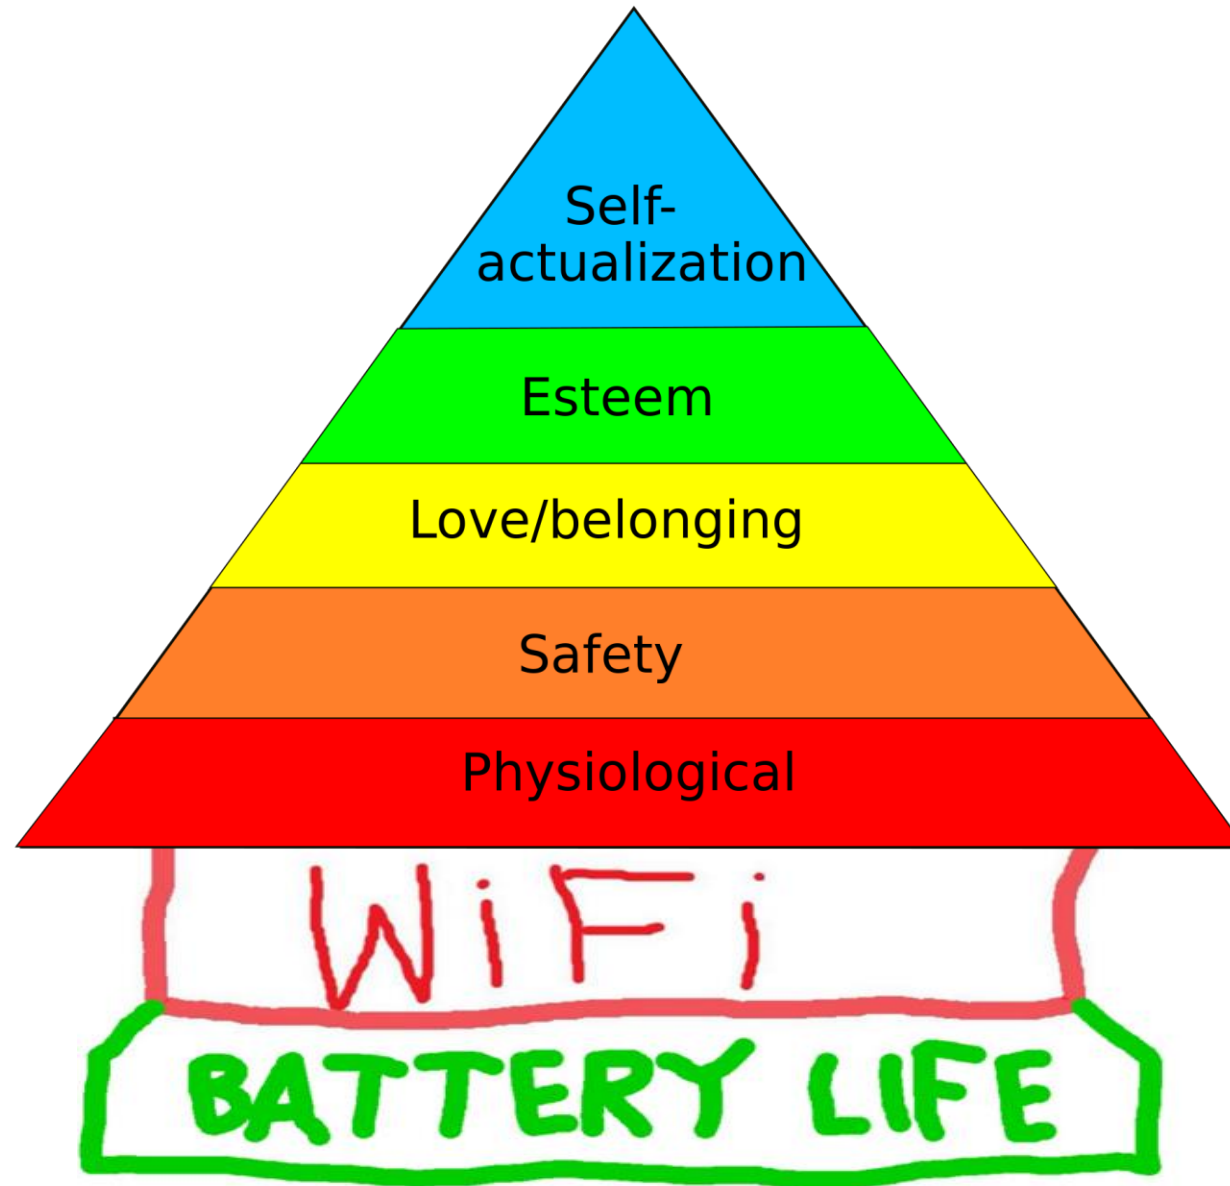

Twenty people have already activated their account on the website, meaning they can avail of the books they want.

On December 27, 2008, HT Lives had published an article on Aashish Aroon (from left), Nitin

hindustantimes

Ola Health

A comprehensive tool that creates an effective flow by encompassing community level patient care to high level supply chain system with easy to use SMS monitoring and evaluating.

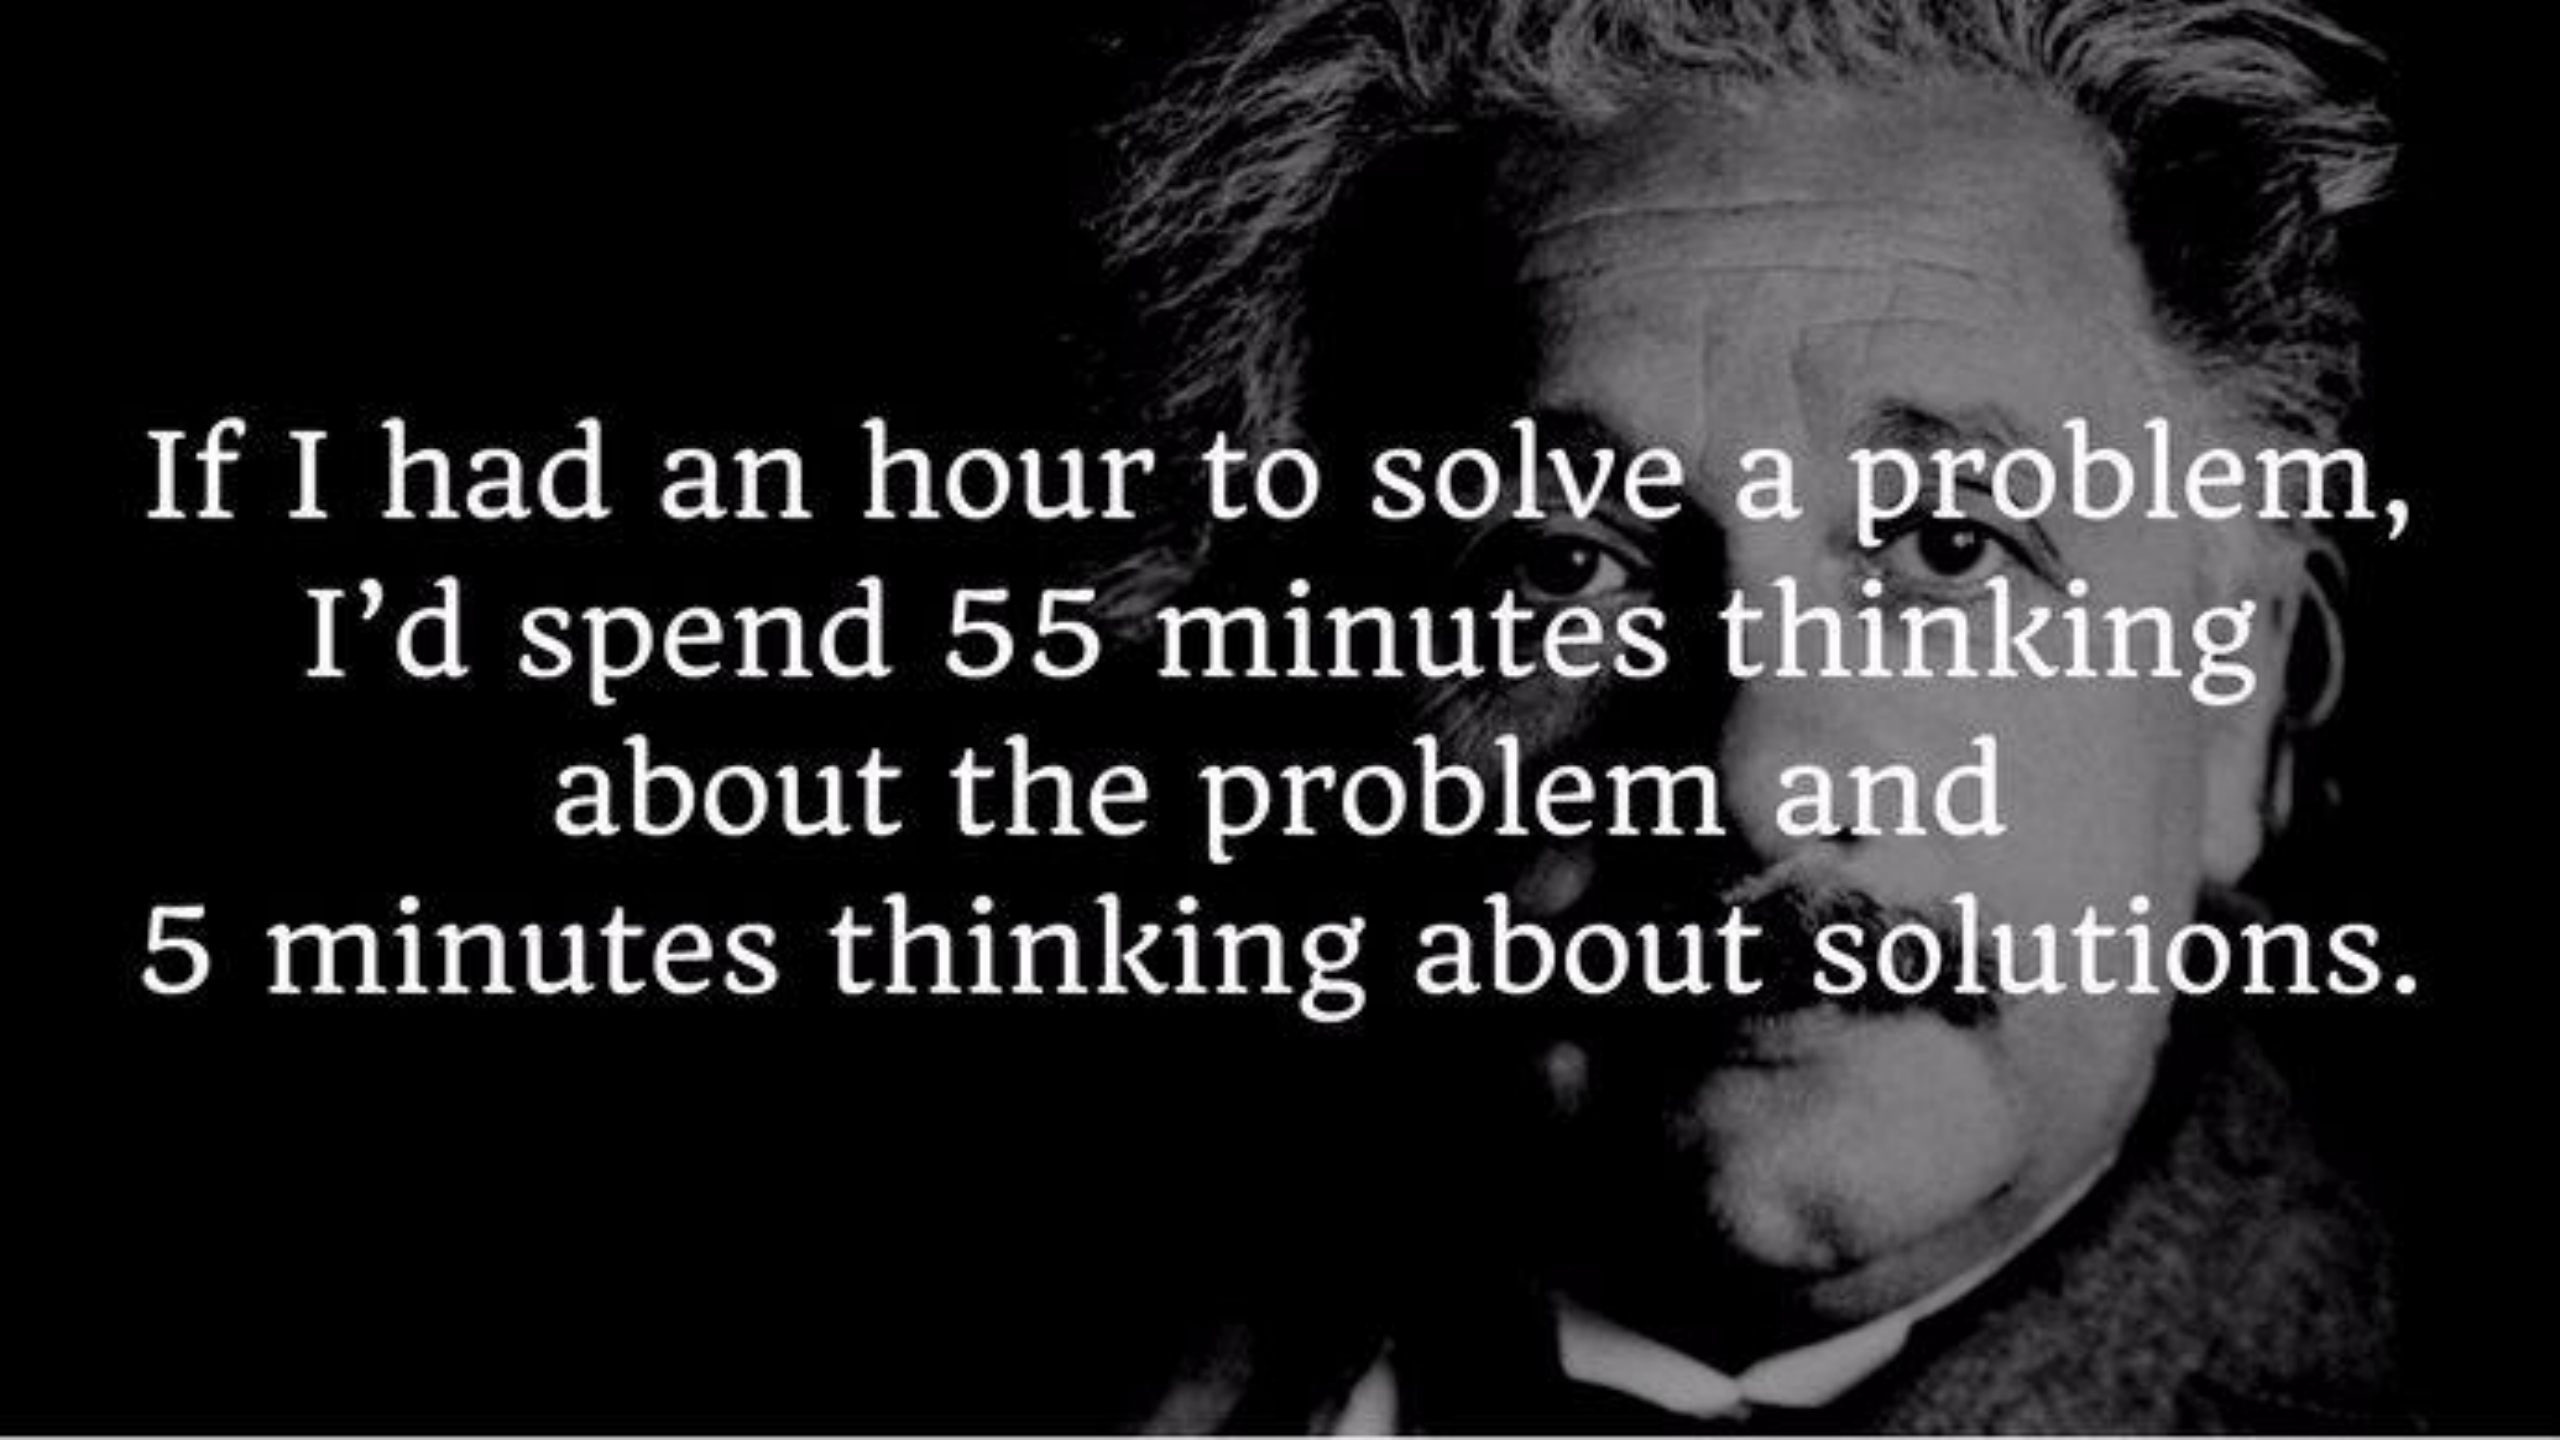

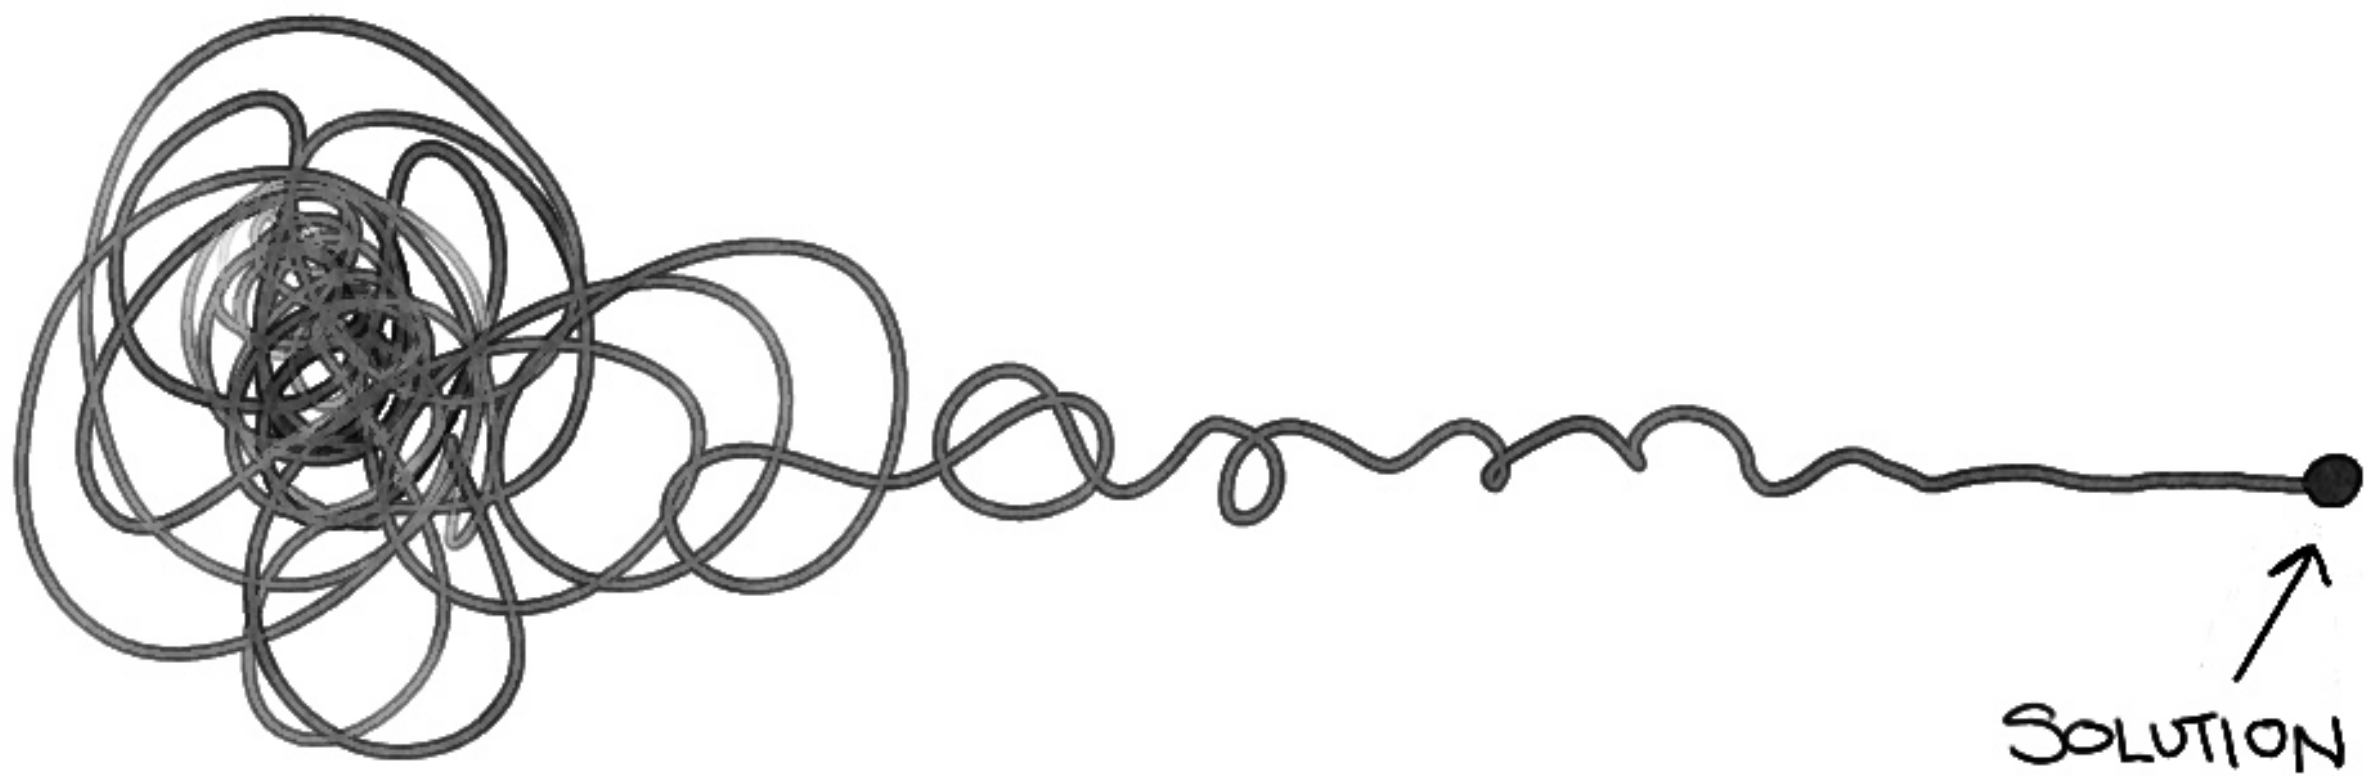

If I had an hour to solve a problem,
I'd spend 55 minutes thinking about the problem and
5 minutes thinking about solutions.

7 Countries
4 Continents
3 Years

FEATURED IN

BBC RADIO
HUFFINGTON POST
YOURSTORY
MID-DAY
CBS PHILLY RADIO
TEDX

WORKED WITH

NASA SCIENTISTS
GOVERNMENTS
TOP UNIVERSITY STUDENTS
FARMERS
DOCTORS
TEACHERS
BANKERS

Y-CENTER.ORG

